Teenage Fanclub, The Town And The City

Feels good to be here again in the cool air and the driving rain in the first light that morning brings high five to future things

Chance is waiting just outside the door arrange the space ??se change is heading here for sure if you can't see it right away you've got to listen, you've got to listen don't just walk away listen for what you're missing because this light feels alright

The high-rise in the setting sun progress that has just begun the new life that tomorrow brings high five to future things

Motion stopped the wheels from turning round silence called but I've been tangled up in sound if you can't hear it right away you've got to listen, you've got to listen don't just walk away listen for what you'ree missing because this light feels alright
