

Temporary Basement, Keep Breathing

i long for you to come and build this space a place where I can find our hands alone entwined fingers around circle each of yours always enjoined so that You save me from me

I touch your face and feel each subtle groove invite me in to fall asleep inside your voice till I cannot break apart the ends and starts of us We'll be together

You save me from
From the hold of this city I'll breath you in like you were god and hold you strong, strong against the waters and we will walk among the hills, among the shore.

Oh nothing that you say Will change until tomorrow Nothing i can say will change today.
