

Temporary Basement, Someday

I sleep to dream of better days
Even when nobody stays the same
I wait for you

And when the truths are double lies
It's just makes me want to stay and cry
But I hold to you

In a world that's built on dreams
In a world that fights and screams
I think of times left in the past
A picture framed, only meant to last
But I hold to you

So when the days go by and I look through
All the things we tried to take and have
I promised you

Try and see
Try and believe in me.
