

Temposhark, It's Better To Have Loved

You didn't wait for me to help you out
I would've stayed to clear those final doubts
How suddenly the whole world can change overnight
How suddenly the whole world knows your name

And I find myself questioning all that I have done
And I'm trying to press the button to rewind
And I find myself whispering, "There's more I could have done."
And I wish I had the option to rewind

Is it better to have loved, than not at all?
Is it better to have loved, than not at all?

I'm not the same; it feels like I'm missing out
The sky has drained, now I must live without
How suddenly the whole world can change overnight
How suddenly the whole world sings your name

And I find myself questioning all that I have done
And I'm trying to press the button to rewind
And I find myself whispering, "God, what have you done?"
And I wish I had the option to rewind

Is it better to have loved, than not at all? (x4)

I find myself thinking; I hope I can inspire
The subtleties you taught me to admire
I find myself thinking; I hope I can inspire
The subtleties you taught me to admire

Is it better to have loved, than not at all? (x4)
