

Tenth Hour Calling, I See

Some people went and called me crazy
Say that I'm wasting all my time
But you know I'm not changing a thing
He makes life fine

They go and curse me all day long
Trying to bend and break and bruise
Go ahead and say all you want
But you know God's still true

You know I see things so differently
You know I see things from a heavenly view
You know I see things so differently

They laughed at him when he began to build
They big boat up on dry land
But they were singing to a different tune
When the rain began to fall down

Now it was time for the execution day
In a furnace full of fire
They all said, "You're gonna burn"
But they danced among the flames

There my Father was while He was hanging there
On the cross of my own sin
His blood was not shed in vain
He's changed me from within

Father forgive them
For they know not what they do
My love is much deeper
For today the veil has been torn in two
