

Terence Trent D'Arby, Drivin' Me Crazy

Please excuse me as I go insane
And metamorphisize into the rain
I see pools of fate
I think they call your eyes
I guess that my reaction's no surprise
You're drivin` me crazy
Because you won`t be my baby
There`s space for you in my reality
To merge with your vibration peacefully
I see laughter as a rainbow from the heart
And then I think of you and fall apart (*)
You're drivin` me crazy
Because you won`t be my baby
I see symphonies in motion when you breathe
How can I make you see what I believe?
You're drivin` me crazy
Because you won`t be my baby
(*) Note: he sings "and come apart";)
