Terri Clark, The Real Thing

(Terri Clark/Angelo) I've been looking for a way to fill this empy place With everything from poetry to love in cyberspace I contemplate my future, I analyze my past I twist myself up like a pretzel in my yoga class I find attraction in small distractions It's a piece that I've been missing A voice when I really listen A groove thats going to make me sing A feeling only love can bring I'm ready for the real thing Meditating Medicationg, looking for a fix Now I'm getting to the bottom of my bag of tricks Trying to catch a break with each ticking of the clock Searching for the prize inside my cracker jack box Something to save me From all this waiting It's a piece that I've been missing A voice when I really listen A groove thats going to make me sing A feeling only love can bring I'm ready for the real thing I've looked around and I've discovered Nothing can touch me like a lover It's a piece that I've been missing A voice when I really listen A groove thats going to make me sing A feeling only love can bring

I'm ready for the real thing