The Academy Is..., 40 Steps

Soft light, total silence

So tired to take the table near the door

The table near the door

Set back under fire

Only as stable as I choose to show

If I choose to show

But where were you that night?

When I was...

Well, I feel that this an explosion

Nobody else could ever really know

I would follow you anywhere

You say you don't believe in science

You're always afraid of what you can't control

I would follow you anywhere

But where were you that night?

When I was...

When I was calling for the answer

That you probably shouldn't know

When it feels like flames surrounding me here

When you were calling with your questions

And all I needed was to know

When it feels like flames surrounding me here

Unkempt and over caffeinated

I walked the forty steps to the room

Back to the room

You say you don't believe in science

You're always ashamed of what you're willing to lose

I would follow you anywhere

But where were you that night?

When I was...

When I was calling for the answer

That you probably shouldn't know

When it feels like flames surrounding me here

When you were calling with your questions

And all I needed was to know

When it feels like flames surrounding me here

So this is it

So this is it

So this is the silence

So this is the silence we began

It's never quite

It's never quite over

It's never quite over in the silence

When I was calling for the answer

That you probably shouldn't know

When it feels like flames surrounding me here

When you were calling with your questions

And all I needed was to know

When it feels like flames surrounding me here
