The Alarm, Dawn Chorus

I'm a lonely man walking lonely streets I'm soaked to the skin with the pain of my unease From such a strained existence

The tension in this world keeps me from sleep I'm hungry and cold There's a weight hanging over my shoulders A rain black cloud of doubt

Have I got enough love Have I got enough hope? Enough strength to face the world each day? I know there's an answer somewhere in this night I see her each time I look in your eyes

I'm walking in a wild place I am banging on the gates On the other side of the tracks babe Hoping that someone's gonna hear me pray

Oh there's a dawn chorus breaking out all over the town

Will you say you want me,
Will I say I want you?
Will you say you love me
When I'm stripped and forced to stand up naked
And will I still love you

The goal that I want can't exist without fire And you fire the thoughts that realise all my dreams These are a grown man's tears

I lost all faith, I lost all hope I started drinking, life became a joke Something would keep me going. I didn't know what it was But I saw it each time I looked in your eyes

I'm walking in a wild place I am banging on the gates On the other side of the tracks babe Hoping that someone's gonna hear me pray

Oh there's a dawn chorus breaking out all over the town

Oh my god Why do I feel the doubt

You give me something I can't live without Yet from somewhere there comes an emptiness A feeling that I can't suppress

Is this the start of the beginning or the point of no return?

There's an answer there When I look in your eyes

I'm walking in a wild place
I am banging on the gates
On the other side of the tracks babe
Where all my doubts are now laid away away away I'm walking in a wild place
I am banging on the gates
On the other side of the tracks babe

Where someone answered my prayers

Oh there's a dawn chorus breaking out all over the town

(That's too sad)