The Ark, Father Of A Son

One day I will become the father of a son Hallelujah Hallelujah Hallelujah!

Well, I've had my share Of remarks about my rear But I know it's all about fear And that you'd probably love it if you'd only dare

And I know a thousand girls who'd go wild If I'd ask them to bear my child So I don't see why you'd even care to prevent me cause I can swear,

That one day I will become
The father of a Son
Hallelujah Hallelujah Hallelujah!
One day I will become
the father of a Son
Hallelujah Hallelujah Hallelujah!

And you're totally fogged in your head
If you were serious right now when you said
That it's because they will be bullied in school cause that means you let the bullies set the rules

And you can legislate and oppress and you can make my life a mess But you can't change the way I feel Or convince me that my wish is unreal And you can strike me down and fence me And you can claim that there's opinion against me But I'll still win over You, Sir cause if you fight Love, you're always a looser

And one day I will become
The Father of a Son
Hallelujah Hallelujah Hallelujah!
One day I will become
The Father of a Son
Hallelujah Hallelujah Hallelujah!

And I may be gay
But I can tell you straight away
That I'll become a better father than all of you anyway (So listen!)
One day I will become
the Father of a Son
Hallelujah Hallelujah!