</lyrics>

I'm starting my search, sending up a spray of water
Heading out into the vast, boundless world
With chest overflowing with eagerness, I'll go anywhere
Searching for a light yet unseen

When the summer sun rocks the sails of my heart
It's a sign that the door to a new world has opened
Swaying on the waves, there's no such thing as despair
I'm heading beyond the horizon

I'm starting my search, sending up a spray of water
Heading out into the vast, boundless world
With chest overflowing with eagerness, I'll go anywhere
Searching for a light yet unseen

The tedium of everyday life flows away along with the mundane clouds
It's reflected in you too The future can't be predicted
If you reject change, you may avoid getting hurt,
But then you won't even have any hopes or dreams C'mon, let's go

Why am I searching? What do I desire?
The answer is surely just ahead
With that in mind, I head for the center of this world that's starting to move
I still have undiscovered potential

Why am I searching? What do I desire?
There's still treasure to be discovered everywhere
With chest overflowing with eagerness, how far will I go?
Who knows...

I'm starting my search, sending up a spray of water
Heading out into the vast, boundless world
With chest overflowing with eagerness, I'll go anywhere
Searching for a light yet unseen

Into the distance
