

The Bear Quartet, A Freak Accident

what I remember
it's too cold in the water too hot indoors
beyond the point of remorse

what I remember
there's a bottle and it's broken by words finally spoken no missing links howled in the open but I'm sure I heard you laugh only stitches away from the past

I avoided today

a strange quality greets me here a promise no one would notice to come back again if I somehow got away

a sad discovery
I can't locate the centre of how much you meant to me of what I once felt as alive in me

but I'm sure I heard you laugh
only stitches away from the past
I avoided today

adrenaline and awe sharpened everything I saw