

The Beautiful Mistake, Walking Wounded

We lit the match, dropped it and waited Just to see how beautiful, and painful it could be It's funny how clear, your eyes get from crying It's funny how clean, your life gets from dying.

You know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
all we want is shelter
from the times that bring us down.
You know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
just to be protected
from the doubt thats in our heart

Been at the bottom, soared to the sun
Just to see how beautiful
and painful it could be Wings that were ours, broken from trying Wings that were ours, melted from flying

You know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
all we want is shelter
from the times that bring us down.
You know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
just to be protected
from the doubt thats in our heart

You know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
all we want is shelter
from the times that bring us down.
You know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
just to be protected
from the doubt thats in our heart