

The Berlin Project, Running In Circles

I've been running around in circles trying to win the games you play.
You try to be so obvious in every way,
but if I scream your name, whoa
you still won't hear me, you still won't see me.
My head is spinning round and round,
they let you know that I found out,
but you could not feel a thing.
You said we grow together,
but now I'm growing tired of my life,
will I ever win this game?
I've been running around in circles,
trying to find out all you've done, how you've been so inconsiderate to everyone.
But if I scream your name, whoa
you still won't hear me, you still won't see me.
My head is spinning round and round,
they let you know that I found out,
but you could not feel a thing.
You said we grow together,
but now I'm growing tired of my life,
will I ever win this game?
So here we are,
we've grown apart,
but what you said,
it plays again and again and again.
It hurts so bad,
but keep in mind the game is over now,
was it worth it?
With all we had,
how could we have let this go so far?
It wasn't worth it.