

The Better World, All For Nothing

All for Nothing
(Matt Coban)

What you have is something I have never felt before
Don't throw it away
And if I turn my head from everything I taught myself
Then I'm somewhere in the middle
Well I can feel the rain, but I can also do without it
Bringing me down
What's this dream you call a passion
Did you do it all for nothing
Is there anything to fear?
Never felt you coming closer
Everything kept moving forward
And it's so hard to deal
And I know, I did it all for nothing

Keep yourself up straight, maybe things will begin to change
If no one gets in your way

Sooner or later comes, feels like you ran away from home
And you're stuck somewhere in the middle
And if you fall too deep, just make sure I can do without it
Bringing me down
What's this dream you call a passion
Did you do it all for nothing
Is there anything to fear?
Never felt you coming closer
Everything kept moving forward
And it's so hard to deal
And I know, I did it all for nothing

Broken lives, don't get away from yourself
Cause I'm already lost enough
Do you know where you'd go, if you were out on your own?
Cause I can't even change the world
No I can't change the world
