The Black Halos, Some Things Never Fall

So here, yes here we stand Clenching our hands Backed up, backed up against the wall

These times they move too fast I'm left in the past But those things, those things never last

I don't really wonder why Some things live & some things die I don't really think about what it's really all about

And I say yes We'll show them all Some things never fall

My friends they're all left for dead The words they said They ain't so easy to forget

My mind just slips away My brain decays I'm getting dumber every day
