

The Brat Attack, Love Triangle

Her cute drunken smile seemed like a million miles away
She kissed me for the first time that day
She was punk as fuck, and took what she wanted,
Every one of us has least fallen
But then he saw her, without a care in the world
Held hands with my newfound grrrl
Should I really carry on for yet a whole evening
Reclined to myself, I found myself deceiving
Oh my god, she slept with somebody else
Couldn't deal with what I was dealt
How could she do this to me?
Didn't she even care; down my face came the first tear
She broke my heart in 2
There's nothing I could do
She loved me and she loved you
She took my heart away; there's nothing I could say
Maybe another day
She loved me and she loved you