

The Bright Star Alliance, The Bluest Danube

I'm walking through this town alone tonight
I'm seeing faces I've never seen before
The streets are filled with rain as it pours down
And somehow I don't think I'll make it out
Torrential downpour drowns out my day
Searching to find you in this torrential rain
(Love turns to anger the torment inside
Still hurts but I can never let you go)
So let me hear your voice again I ask-
That you will turn your back and come with me
And we will make it out alive tonight
When will we get out of here?