

The Buzzcocks, Who'll Help Me To Forget?

Now that your love's not real
You leave me lying on my own
I find it kinda rich you know
When something goes to nothing
Then again I guess I should've known

Was it all a waste of time
A game I'm not supposed to win
No matter what I try
It seems to make no difference
I'll just have to start all over again

I'm trying oh so hard to be a man about it
I'd like to see your point of view
But you always refuse to even talk about it
This isn't just a phase I'm going through

Now you've made up your mind
Please tell me why is life so cruel
While you act the Lear of love
You have me cast down as the fool
But there is a question
That's still unanswered yet
I said who'll help me to forget

Was it all a waste of time
A game I'm not supposed to win
No matter what I try
It seems to make no difference
I'll just have to start all over again

I'm trying oh so hard to be a man about it
I'd like to see your point of view
But you always refuse to even talk about it

This isn't just a phase I'm going through

Now you've made up your mind
Please tell me why is life so cruel
While you act the Lear of love
You have me cast down as the fool
But there is a question
That's still unanswered yet
I said who'll help me to forget
I said who'll help me to forget

[SOLO]

I'm trying oh so hard to be a man about it
I'd like to see your point of view
But you always refuse to even talk about it
This isn't just a phase I'm going through

Now you've made up your mind
Please tell me why is life so cruel
While you act the Lear of love
You have me cast down as the fool
But there is a question
That's still unanswered yet
I said who'll help me to forget

Now you've made up your mind
Please tell me why is life so cruel

While you act the Lear of love
You have me cast down as the fool
But there is a question
That's still unanswered yet
I said who'll help me to forget
I said who'll help me to forget