

The Carpenters, When Time Was All We Had

That endless season

When time was all we had

We saw forever

And caught it in our hands

Life was a charm

Our hearts were filled with music

And laughter

When time was all we had

I never will forget your face in silhouette

Your voice will be the sweetest sound

I'll ever hear and yet

We knew somehow the song would never end

When time was all we had to spend