

The Connells, On Your Honor

Did you see how long the party was?
We're talking years here and did you say how long you kept it up?
Be so much better
When you finally decide to take them down.
Your Christmas lights are the only ones still up in town.
Twice as funny when you pull the plug
on all you meant to do.

Better be on your honor
on your own.

Cleaning up is half the fun.
Be so much easier
if you wait up for the sun.
Half-way asking is it finally time
to hold down.
Those voices tellin' you now is the time to leave town.
When you clear the bench there won't be any doubt
'bout what you need to do.

Better be on your honor
on your own.
