

The Cooper Temple Clause, Derelict

An inability to settle down and talk straight
Reasons we've broken down
Fact that neither of us seems to wanna give an inch
Reasons we've broken down
Simple but in fact a lack of care and understanding
Reasons we've broken down
Thought that one of us could get his or her own way
Reasons we've broken down
Giving in time and again to basic instinct
Reasons we've broken down
The fact that we could never find the point of give and take
Reasons we've broken down
Without each other we get run down and unusable
Reasons we've broken down
A combination of the forces are against us
Reasons we've broken down

Cos we still give our lives to crush our hearts for one another
Reasons we've got a chance
This letting go feels like the murder of a lost soul
Reasons we've got a chance
Its how we need to steal the same old failure of a miracle
Reasons we've got a chance
The fact that you and I for what we are become each other
Reasons we've got a chance
