

The Cyan Velvet Project, For Some

wake up from one nightmare into another, the insecurity pretending only keeps you isolated in your shell sometimes suburbia weights more than life itself and i tell you why it's televised there are some people who want to live their lives through you start running away start running they dress interference to caring you're faceless yet in the limelight and televised
remember that girl
what's her name?
she could be whoever she got rid of all the pressure once and for all she found a way out from her bathroom floor