

The Cyan Velvet Project, The Calling

i cannot be so goddamn naive that everything's in control of some entity and i cannot hide away from the shame of all neglected responsibility how should i take away all this anger everything is this fucked up anyway like most of us i think from time to time that hardly any life is worth less than mine how should i beat an enemy who's defeat is the end of me?
sadness that comes from within like blood runs through everything every thought and every sin teaches and preaches to mourn as my calling
how should i beat an enemy
who's defeat is the end of me?