

The Damned, There'll Come A Day

Fear grips your heart and you fight with all your might

Into the distant light you keep your vision bright

And the torch of love is a burning flame

It burns so bright it consumes all pain

And while your hand, your head to prey

Fate deals a hand that we all must play

(chorus)

And when the stars go out

The skies have turned to grey

I'm gonna walk on out

Into a brand new day

Schemes and dreams and just a little more

To keep the wolf howling outside your door

And every night, every day

I think I'll go go go and say

That I have to win, I have to try

I have to hold my head up high

(chorus)

(repeat last 4 lines verse 1)
