

The Echoing Green, Prodigal

Love is a foreign word to you
It's something you used to know
Now you're wondering what to do
As the walls come crashing down

I know someone who wants to rescue you
And I know someone who wants to carry your burdens
Away

As you sit and wonder what to do
You hear His Spirit calling to you
As you sit and think that you're all alone
There's someone waiting for you to come home

You wonder how you can heal
The loneliness inside
You sit there and you feel
That there's no one by your side

I know someone who never went away
And I know someone who is waiting for you to come back
Today

As you sit and wonder what to do
You hear His Sprit calling to you
As you sit and think that you're all alone
There's someone waiting for you to come home
Come home...

Calling to you to come home
Calling to you to come home

As you sit and wonder what to do
You hear His Sprit calling to you
As you sit and think that you're all alone
There's someone waiting for you to come home

As you sit and wonder what to do
You hear His Spirit calling to you
(I know someone who wants to rescue you)
As you sit and think that you're all alone
There's someone waiting for you to come home
(I know someone who wants to carry your burdens away)

As you sit and wonder what to do
You hear His Spirit calling to you
(I know...)
As you sit and think that you're all alone
There's someone waiting for you to come home
(I know...)

I know someone who never went away
And I know someone who is waiting for you to come back
Today