

The Evergreen, Blind

Time goes to nowhere flows as a river it's over and over
The pictures about her broke as a mirror, scattered the pieces of my heart
It never can see you and never listens to someone in a doorway
When one hurts another gave us no reason, why does it always come to me

Forced me to hold on, kept me for so long and gets me down for she's not here
I've come to conclusion it was an illusion that somebody held my hand in those days
I was not there where somebody held my hand in those days
All nights and days her name just spinning around in my brain
Her shine makes me blind - three times
...her shine makes me blind

I find you and loose you in a hazy crowd walking it's over and over
It's better than talk to you it's better to hide my thoughts, time could reveal everything
Time goes to nowhere flows as a river it's over and over
The pictures about her broke as a mirror, scattered the pieces of my heart
It never can see you and never listens to someone in a doorway
When one hurts another gave us no reason, why does it always come to me
I've got to hold on it kept me for so long and gets me down for she's not here
I've come to conclusion it was an illusion that somebody held my hand in those days

I was not there, where somebody held my hand in those days
All nights and days her name just spinning around in my brain
Her shine makes me blind - three times
...her shine makes me blind
