

The Go Set, Fifty Four

It's a tale of the Fifty Four, a tale of a time gone by.
Of a Merchant's declaration, and the blood red sun setting in the sky.
It's the tale of a people's war, of how things came to be.
The dividing of a nation, of a new frontier and history.
The years serve to tell us that we lost and won a fight, but all men are made equal - and they all need equal rights.
For those who fight the power, for those who stand up tall.
For those who fight for the given rights and the freedom of us all.
It's the spirit of the fifty four, the spirit of a time for change.
The echo of the gun, and the price of a lift remains.
The spirit of the fellow man, of trust and hope and faith, when the darkest hour is just before the dawning of the day.
