

The Hooters, One Too Many Nights

Was it one too many words I could not say
Was it one too many times I drove away
Well, this heart of mine is way beyond repair
And it's one too many nights without you there

Now it's one too many shots I gotta drink
And it's one too many times I gotta think
It's easy to pretend that I don't care
But it's one too many nights without you there...

And if it's over said and done
Why do I go on believing
And if too much time has passed
Let me find my peace at last...

And the sun sill always rise and set again
And the wind will blow no matter where or when
Well it blows me down a road that goes nowhere
And it's one too many nights without you there...
It's one too many nights without you there...
