

The Juliana Theory, Congratulations

you kiss your life goodbye like lovers in the night returning home alone as if you suffered a heart attack under the weight of the world that nearly broke your back it was written on your face i could see it in your face congratulations today's another day it's coming crashing down to break you again congratulations you can change sometimes when lying on your back you learn to breathe again black out your bitterness, forget your jaded bliss, your shadow falls on me you blame it all on a mutiny when everybody around you always seems so free i can see it in your eyes, its burning in your eyes

congratulations today's another day
it's coming crashing down to break you again
congratulations you can change
sometimes when lying on your back you learn to breathe again

nothing left to lose, there's nothing left to lose
nothing left to lose, there's nothing left to lose

congratulations, you have have another day
it's coming crashing down to break you again
congratulations you can change
sometimes when lying on your back you learn to breathe again

there's nothing left to lose