

The Kingston Trio, Song For A Friend

When you sit and wonder why things have gone so wrong and you wish someone would tell us why
Look then in the hills when there's courage in the wind and in the face of freedom and those who lo
And search within the heart of ev'ry young man with a song then I think we'll know where our friend

Summer takes the winter as the good years take the pain. There'll be laughter in the land again but
And I know I'll remember when a chill wind takes the sky and speak of the years he gave us hope f
And as we gaze at brave young men when yesterdays grow long, then I think we'll know where our

When you sit and wonder why things have gone so wrong. It's then that we'll remember where our