The Kinks, Young And Innocent Days

I look back at the way I used to look at life Soft, white dreams with sugar coated outside It was great, so great Young and innocent days

I wish my eyes could only see Everything, exactly as it used to be It's too late, so late Young and innocent days

I see the lines across your face Time has gone and nothing ever can replace Those great, so great Young and innocent days