

The Mission, Bang Bang

It's never enough to apologise
You always want more than I give
It's never enough to admit I'm wrong
You always want more rope to hang me with
It's never enough to work my fingers to the bone
A new man's work is never done
And it's never enough to grovel and crawl
Use my apologies as bullets for your gun

Bang bang, and I'm dead
Hold your gun right to my head
Bang bang, and I'm dead
No matter what we say we know it's got to end this way
(No matter what we do we know it's either me or you)
(I want you to know it hurts to see you go)
Bang bang

It's never enough to shoulder the blame
You want to crush me with the weight of disappointment
It's never enough to admit defeat
Rub salt into my wounds as your anointment
