The Moody Blues, My Brother

My brother If you could cast a little light on someone It's not too soon You took me halfway round the world I'm running out of time and reasons

My true friend If you could tell me what it is that keeps you From coming down You left me way up in the clouds The higher you fly The less I see you

So far Cross a wild and windy sea So far That our voices are divided by an ocean An ocean

My brother If you could take a little time to slow down It's more your style It takes a lifetime to decide I'm running out of time and reasons I'm running out I'm running out

So far Cross a wild and windy sea So far That our voices are Divided by an ocean An ocean
