

The Movement, Still An Echo

You bought your politicians
You bought the best police
You build another wall
There must be more to life than all this shit

We vote for something 2nd time
The first NO! really wasn't right
But you don't care for nothing
Cause money talks and money made your world

They think they're so clever
The rich think they're so right
They say it is no time to fight

There's still an echo
Of all the young kids falling in the streets
Shot down by the police
And justified in all high places
But they can never keep us down

I see their faces on the news
I see how TV's making truth
Majority's confused
Believing all the lies they telling you

There's still an echo
Of all the young kids falling in the streets
Shot down by the police
And justified in all high places
But they can never keep us down
