

The Poets, Game Over

Seems to me like things are changing, and you know
Theres times when I just blame myself
I always hoped that things would go our way, but no,
Here we are in this same old olace
We have to open up our eyes
All the love we had is washed away
Were just acting out the parts we used to play
Everything has just become a game
Yeah, we han it all, but now its time to say
Game Over
This time there is no more turning back, cause you know
Now were standin up against the wall
I only wish I knew just what went wrong, but I know
Nothings gonna change the mess were in
We had to open up our eyes
All the love we had is washed away
Were just acting out the parts we used to play
Everything has just become a game
Yeah, we han it all, but now its time to say
Game Over
I guess we did the best we could
And in all the bad there was some good
But I feel theres nothing more for me to say
I cant do this anymore, no
All the love we had is washed away
Were just acting out the parts we used to play
Everything has just become a game
Yeah, we han it all, but now its time to say
Game Over
