

The Police, Recapture The Thrill

Recapture the thrill
of yesterday...
No, you never will,
try as you may...

You're passing by a race and just by chance you happen to drop in for a moment or two...Yeah
You know the kind of thing,'cause every now and then you must have had it happen to you...Yeah
When just by coincidence,
things at the time
know you'll find
You meet a girl and fall in love
Chase a wife
You dance the night away...
The girl begs you,
"Please, please, please stay."
Never try to

recapture the thrill
of yesterday...
No, you never will,
try as you may...

With the passing time,the memory in your mind will give a false sense of elation...
You wish to go but know you must return and finally yield to temptation...
When you arrive,
you can't believe
but for the name,
the place is the same
The floor is empty

and the whole mood has changed
You spend the night alone...
Sadly, you make your way home But everybody tries to

recapture the thrill
of yesterday...
Yesterday
No, they never will,
try as they may

You see them walking 'round, their heads are hanging down,their sad faces show disillusion...
The things they knew before are not here anymore; they can't understand their confusion...
The pity fools
who never learn
they just don't belong
They still...hold on The day of spender is a nostalgic song opening a final dream Nothing but time in between Forever trying to

recapture the thrill
of yesterday...
Oh, why don't they understand?
No, they never will,
try as they may

You've got to hear me, people
It's too late Recapture the thrill
You found uncertainty