The Pretenders, Hollywood Perfume

I went out on the balcony in the middle of the night The hotel was dark except for just one light Television burning in the other room I couldn't sleep so I put on some of your Hollywood perfume

I went out on the balcony and looked across the way Some guy was shadow boxing, he looked like sugar ray I was feeling dizzy - began to swoon Was it his punch or was it just your Hollywood perfume?

I feel like a fugitive escaped from my life Seeking refuge in the sensual heat These paper-thin walls make me party to calls Of love wafting through the room The night jasmine bloom

Of your hollywood perfume

I went out on the balcony to clear my head I was burning up in my queen-sized bed Down on the strip beneath the billboard moon Teenaged girls look for love in the Neon sex and doom Of your hollywood perfume

I went out on the balcony with your photograph I dropped it in the pool and that made me laugh You like your tan but you don't like to swim Meanwhile I feel like I'm drowning in Neon sex and doom The night jasmine bloom Of your hollywood perfume
