

The Promise Drive, Forever Gone

I've been waiting for you to come back home.
Sitting here, on my bed, next to my phone.
I'm not sure how I'll feel the next time I see you.
I'm not sure what I'll say.
I know you'll have a perfect life with him and you'll be happy if he loves you half as much as I do.
Some things don't last forever.
I won't try to pretend, nothing last forever.
You're forever gone. I think of all the times I prayed, so many times, that you could be mine. Here, by my side.
You're forever and you're never coming back.
