

The Promise Drive, Friends Don't Let Friends Go

My Dad always told me,
"Make money and the girls will come running faster. Go to college."
I wonder why. So I can wear a shirt and tie for the rest of my life?
I don't want to be just like them. The world always told me,
"You're nothing, but you've got to chase after something. Get a suit. Be a clone."
So I can be a mindless drone? There's nobody home. Get a job you two-bit slob.
You're just a bum, so I'll see you at the bottom. Don't pursue your american dream.
What's right for you, isn't right for me.
