

The Red Jumpsuit Apparatus, Atrophy

Don't tell me that this is your last chance to change
'Cause if you do, then you would be telling a lie
But

I warned you
What could happen if you should decide
To live your life from 9 till 5

And I mourn you
For that detail that is left unsaid
Is a reminder of the time you bled

Return to days when you knew you still felt alive
Reveal the way you felt when you could look inside

They sold you
Everything you need to fix you up
And you feel good now but you can't wake up
They found a way to reassure you (that everything would be okay)
Reach out today now I implore you to remember who you are

Return to days when you knew you still felt alive
Reveal the way you felt when you could look inside

So you felt it but you don't know
Why you can't explain at all
Why you felt it 'cause you don't know
No, you don't know

Break the walls between building atrophy
Causing all your problems to recede
Break the walls between (break the walls between)
Causing all your pain (causing all)
You'll never learn

Return to days when you knew you still felt alive
Reveal the way you felt when you could look inside

(Break the walls between building atrophy)
Take back the beat in your heart
Why fight when you can't be bought

(Causing all your problems to recede)
Take back the beat in your heart
Why fight when you can't be bought

(Break the walls between)
Take back the beat in your heart
Why fight when you can't be bought

(Causing all your pain)
Take back the beat in your heart
Why fight when you can't be bought