The Red Jumpsuit Apparatus, Pen and Paper

This whole routine is getting old
So am I
And so are you
My reputation lets me know
I can do whatever I want to Though it seems that you believe
You can do whatever it is you please,
Not before, not before you wind up on your knees

Don't cry to me no more

You like the way the people stare at you Now you look so fake
Just thought that you should know
And you're all the same
And when the curtain drops down
You'll be replaced by something typical

You set yourself up to be sold and that's okay 'cause that's your role Manipulation takes its toll Will you do, nobody wants you Though it seems that you believe You can do whatever it is you please, Not before, not before you wind up on your knees

Don't cry to me no more

You like the way the people stare at you And now you look so fake Just thought that you should know And you're all the same And when the curtain drops down You'll be replaced by something typical

I know I stood so long beside you And I know I should have left you right where I had found you I know I stood so long beside you And I know I should have left you right where I had found you

You like the way that people stare at you Now you look so fake
Just thought that you should know
You're all the same
And when the curtain drops down
You'll be replaced by something typical

You like the way that people stare at you Now you look so fake
Just thought that you should know
And you're all the same
and when the curtain drops down
you'll be replaced by something typical