

The Secret Machines, Still See You

You know, I still see you everywhere
A room, still, you're lying there
You're half-asleep in a wedding gown
You don't look down at all, and you sigh at me

You left me trying to embrace you alone in the room still You're drowning in tears and I'm sorry to say they're all mine

You know, I see with anyone
Still pretend it's you, there's no one like you

You know I still
I still see you
You know I still
I still see you
You know I still
I still see you