

The Smithereens, Beauty & Sadness

Maybe I've seen your face
A long long time ago
Maybe I've kissed your lips
Maybe I just don't know

The minute I start my day
The moment I open my eyes
The second I think of your face
The time when I start to cry

Maybe you'll never belong to me
Maybe I'm wondering why
Beauty & sadness
Beauty & sadness

The teardrops behind your mask
As fragile as porcelain
The beauty that could not last
The love that I'd never been

Whenever I see your face
The traces of tears you've cried
I think of the love you lost
How something inside you died

Maybe you'll never belong to me
Maybe I'm wondering why
Beauty & sadness
Beauty & sadness

Beauty & sadness
Beauty & sadness

Maybe I've seen your face
A long long time ago
Maybe I've kissed your lips
Maybe I just don't know

The minute I start my day
The moment I open my eyes
The second I think of your face
The time when I start to cry

Maybe you'll never belong to me
Maybe I'm wondering why
Beauty & sadness
Beauty & sadness

Beauty & sadness
Beauty & sadness

Beauty & sadness
Beauty & sadness...