The Stanley Brothers, I'm Lonesome Without You

When we were young and loved each other More than anyone will know Until that day you found a new love Then you said I'd have to go.

Oh the Road is rough and rocky Since the day I last saw you Another's won your heart forever And I'm lonesome without you.

On down this lonesome road I wander There's nothing left for me to do For I've still got this memory of you And the love that we once knew.

My hope is now that you'll be happy With the new love that you've found But should you ever change your mind dear Remember me I'll be around.
