

The Starting Line, Forever In A Day

Tuesday's here and I'll be waking up to another day filled with life's mistakes,
And the ones that lingered from the day before.
All the blanks I've drawn,
All the times I've shared,
All the times that I've been unprepared.
All the songs I've sang that I just can't explain.
Did you know that I once said
That I can't change the road that I was led,
And can't find better friends.
Is it worth the pain?
Is it worth the wait?
As I attempt to set my record straight,
I'll open up the drapes
And I'll appreciate the most beautiful day.
Afternoon should be coming soon,
As dim light leaves, the sun shines over me,
It feels like my shadows run away.
Evening falls on top of me,
And the minutes creep by constantly.
Then I look back and start the day again.
Am I sorry, am I lost,
Have I forgot where I'm coming from
Or have I just begun?
Different days and different ways
Always seem to end up the same,
It's too routine for me.
Did you know that I once said
That I can't change the road that I was led.
Forever more and lived forever in a day.