The Subways, Move To Newlyn

I'm gonna move to Newlyn Find the light inside of me Sail the Irish sea to Dublin What will life ever make of me?

I see the kids play in the street
In their world so happily
My cousin Rick he still believes
There's a world he's yet to see
Carry on or fade away
Eventually there comes a day
We all see we are the same
With different things we choose to say
But what will you say?

I'm gonna hitch up to Glasgow Learn the tricks I ought to know An open book is still a mystery So what will life ever make of me?

I see the kids play in the street
In their world so happily
My cousin Rick he still believes
There's a world he's yet to see
Carry on or fade away
Eventually there comes a day
We all see we are the same
With different things we choose to say
But what will you say?

Over and down though hills and towns In sunshine and in rain No holding back, relif in that I'll never feel the same I'll go my own way

I see the kids play in the street
In their world so happily
My cousin Rick he still believes
There's a world he's yet to see
Carry on or fade away
Eventually there comes a day
We all see we are the same
With different things we choose to say
But what will you say?
