

The Sunstreak, Great White Coma

We live in a lonely life all alone in a lonely fight wondering if I'll be all right without you all you needed was a second chance a different song for a different dance now I'm ready for a glance at life without you if we're so young and free why do you pressure me why are you pushing me away for all I've done for you for all you've put me through there's nothing left for me to say but I... promise you promise you that promise I'll never chance promise you promise you that
that your heart will break
die hard searching out the light wondering if I'll live my life without you these days keep on passing by fun girl wasting all my time but it's cool knowing I'll be fine without you If you're so young and free why do you follow me I keep on pushing you away for all the time we shared i know you never cared
and I...
we are all just waiting for our time
