

The Swellers, The Damage

Can't hear you now
You've lost your touch
You're not the same person in front of me
So cover up your skin and bones
What are you trying so hard not to be
Everything that you wrote, I already read
You plagiarized
Everything that you said was all rehearsed
I know your lines

The damage is done
I saw for myself
If I didn't know any better
I'd swear you were someone else
The damage is done
I saw for myself
If I didn't know any better
I'd swear you were someone else

Time's running out
You've been discovered
It's your swan song
So clear the air
And come outside
Have you been faking sick for so long
And all of the pills you take won't fix a single thing
And you didn't think what goes around comes rolling back to me
Back to me

The damage is done
I saw for myself
If I didn't know any better
I'd swear you were someone else
The damage is done
I saw for myself
If I didn't know any better
I'd swear you were someone else

You've been faking sick for so long
I can't hear you now
You've lost your touch
Can't hear you now
You've lost your touch

The damage is done
I saw for myself
If I didn't know any better
I'd swear you were someone else
The damage is done
I saw for myself
If I didn't know any better
I'd swear you were someone else
