The The, Like A Sun Risin Thru My Garden

" The sky is glowing with anticipation, & amp; casts a shadow across the nation A dust is rising from the heat of the sun I'm drinking... for the thirst to come. But I am, contemplating oneness, summer's here... but I hardly noticed. There's no reason to be singing there's no reason to be here at all... Occupation, I don't have one I'd lie in bed, until the cows come, I'm snowed up, inside my window, Buried in sand up to my elbows But I am, contemplating oneness, summer's here... but I hardly noticed. There's no reason to be singing there's no reason to be here at all... World wars & amp; the fate of nations the sky is glowing with anticipation I'm wasting away with worry & amp; my heart just skipped a beat But then again... I felt much calmer I opened up a can of instant karma a yoga posture for self awareness & the devil rides out of YOUR LIFE!!!
